Active 5.1 Important Information.

At the beginning of March this year the Active 5.1 will be withdrawn from sale in favour of the Active 7.1 which will take its place.

The Active 5.1 and Active 7.1 formulas contain exactly the same ingredients, but the Active 7.1 has 2 additional ingredients, Potassium sulphate (Kali Sulph), and Calcium sulphate (Calc Sulph). All the label "Indications for use" are the same, but the Active 7.1 has "additional indications" that increase its scope because of the potassium sulphate and calcium sulphate.

The Active 7.1 also differs from the Active 5.1, in that it has "Regular use", and "For symptomatic relief" dose instructions on the label. The unique ability of the Active 7.1 to manage mild inflammatory and infectious symptoms and conditions, probably explains why the Active 7.1 is so popular.

For those health practitioners and retailers who rely on our online Active Elements Assessment System, please be advised that at the beginning of March this year our system will select Active 7.1 instead of Active 5.1.

Clients/customers currently taking the Active 5.1 can be simply transitioned to the Active 7.1 when the practitioner's/retailer's stockholding of the Active 5.1 is exhausted.
